

Abstract

A method of assigning a user to a network chat room. The method includes determining television programming viewed by a network user at a networked device and assigning the network user to a chat room corresponding to the determined television programming.

406110.B11

© 2014 Google Inc.